Provenance:

The papers of Judson King, lecturer, writer, and political consultant, were given to the Library of Congress by his widow, Bertha Hale King, in 1959 and by Ronald Ross in 1960 and 1964. Small additions were given by Ross and others from 1983 to 1985.

Processing History:

The papers of Judson King were arranged and described in 1959. Subsequent accessions received from 1960 through 1964 were interfiled with the original gift of the papers. Two accessions from 1983 were processed as an Addition in 1985. Material received in 1985 was processed in 1999 and interfiled with the Addition series. A note concerning the Judson King Papers appeared in the Library of Congress Information Bulletin, vol. 18, no. 23, 8 June 1959, pp. 310-311.

Copyright Status:

Copyright in the unpublished writings of Judson King in these papers and in other collections of papers in the custody of the Library of Congress has been dedicated to the public.

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Judson King (1872-1958) span the period 1900-1958, with the bulk of the material relating primarily to the development of public power policy in the United States and reflecting his role as a consultant to the United States Rural Electrification Administration.

Of particular interest is a file of General Correspondence covering the period 1912-1958 but largely dated after 1933.

Correspondence for the year 1937 is missing. Manuscripts and typescripts of King's writings, scrapbooks, photographs, newspaper clippings, and printed material complete the collection. Topics featured in the papers include the Rural Electrification Administration, the Tennessee Valley Authority, and the National Popular Government League, which King organized and directed for many years.

Organization of the Papers
